SCI Camp Hill's Shade Recognized for Outstanding Performance

Camp Hill – Denise Shade, an accounting assistant who works at the State Correctional Institution at Camp Hill, was recognized today with the Department of Corrections' outstanding performance award.

"Denise has been a valuable asset at SCI Camp Hill," Superintendent John Murray said. "She is a creative problem solver who uses her ability to understand the big picture."

Shade reviews projects and uses the most efficient manner to complete them. She is a focused employee who has provided valuable information in the design, testing and implementation of the current accounting system, specifically in the areas of tracking and repayment of inmates' debts. Shade is currently involved in updating the training used in these areas to ensure accurate documentation and coding in the tracking system.

Shade began her corrections career as a clerk typist at SCI Camp Hill in 1980. She was promoted to mail room supervisor in 1988. She transitioned to the business office in the inmate accounting department in a clerical capacity in 1990. In 1998 she was promoted to accounting assistant.

Shade serves as the employee association treasurer at SCI Camp Hill and also is secretary for the Camelot Chapter of American Business Women's Association.
